REPUBLICANS' BIG MEETING

CHIEFLY RELATED OUTWARD
FOR THE FIRST CAMPAIGN
EARLY SATURDAY NIGHT.

In point of numbers and enthusiasm the Republican gathering meeting at the Orpheum on Saturday night was all that could be wished, and if nothing entirely new was introduced by the speakers, the reason is to be found in the fact that the campaign as it stands has its issues clear cut and there is little more than old news to be discussed after all. The defeat of Cecil Brewster, the rejected of the Republican party now running on the independent ticket, was easily a chief topic of the speakers for whom other topics failed. Brewster had always been ready for a crack. Another division was caused by Senatorial candidate Bishop's attack on a portion of the local press for its attack on the ticket chosen in the Fifth, an attack which others joined.

Other than for this the proceedings were largely of the "point-with-pride" variety and the "we-were-right" was never in evidence.

When Chairman A. G. M. Robertson of the Central Committee took the chair at eight o'clock the Orpheum was crowded with an enthusiastic, gathered crowd. Prominent in the audience were the Pacific precinct voters all arrayed in red shirts and the Kukis, so marching club also arrived in a solid body. Chairman Robertson was flanked on the platform by the senatorial candidates Lane, Bishop and Brewster, Delegate Kubo and House candidates Harris, Andrade, Aylett, Mahelona, Shaw, Kekulopua, Leilehua, Long, Guinn and Head. The Kukis were also present to carry the proceedings over and again with Hawaiian songs.

In opening proceedings the chairman stated that the object of the gathering was to acquaint the people with the candidates the Republican party had to offer for the suffrages of the electors.

"After the annexation of these islands to the United States as a territory he said "We who assisted in the organization of the Republican party here did so in the belief that it was better for all the varied interests that this Territory should become Republican territory for prosperity, good government, one for the Hawaiians and allies to the and to vote its tickets. In the first place we knew that the annexation resolution was introduced into Congress by a Democrat, although it was passed by a Republican Congress and approved by a Republican President McKinley. By virtue of that there was every reason to believe that the Republican party in the United States would befriend this Territory in every matter pertaining to it, and assist to secure what we needed. The Democrats have opposed what would be beneficial to this Territory. They opposed the Panama canal; they are opposing the enlargement of the American navy, whose fleets coming there would bring financial assistance to us at every call."

"We have presented to us a spectacle that we may well pause to consider. We have seen a gentleman, a hothead, although belonging to this Territory, who has had the advantage of education on the mainland, a legal training and a legal practice, following it up with legislative experience. That gentleman has been accorded various honors at the hands of the Republican party here and has enjoyed the emoluments accruing therefrom. He appeared in our convention last week as a candidate for senatorial honors. His name was duly presented to that convention for consideration, but when the votes were counted it was found he had not received enough to secure him the nomination. Since that convention, notwithstanding all of these former gifts from the Republican party, notwithstanding his education and legal experience, he did not abide by the decision of the convention and betrayed his friends and became a traitor to the party, and was severed the relations of the House with the Senate.

To make good with the loss of the Senate's services John L. Bishop has been chosen to fill the gap left by the man who was defeated. He assumed the secretary general of the Republican party and did his work well. The difference between the two politicians is very marked. The young man stays with the party and has received the benefit of his associations. He therefore has a better political head than Cecil Brewster has shown under the circumstances and deserves the unqualified support of our party and of Democratic voters, because he has shown himself to be something that the other man is not—and that is unable.

Bishopson signed with an appeal to Republicans to vote the straight ticket and thus to condemn in the strongest terms treachery to the party.

John C. Lane, candidate for the Senate, followed upon Bishopson's heels. He made a strong appeal for the return of the Republican ticket as the means of securing a good honest and capable administration.

Delegate Fusion Bishop made as his point the belief that the Republican members recognized the responsible element of the people of the Territory and that it elected as he was sure they would be, they would carry out their anti-slavery pledges in the last letter he made a strong bid for the support of Republicans for Kuhio as delegate to Congress taking the ground that considering the small place that Hawaii occupies on the map Kuhio had done something in obtaining all that he had from the administration at Washington.

After speaking of the ticket as a whole Bishopson made a special reference to the names nominated to uphold the banner of Republicanism in the Fifth. He did not know them all intimately but he believed that when they were elected they would be found willing and able to do their duty. If the people had put in their time in trying to get people to take an interest in politics instead of reviling the ticket when chosen Bishop thought that better results would be obtained.

Lekakau and Kekulopua made addresses in Hawaiian which were enthusiastically received. Candidate Dornell opened his address in the same language. His remarks being translated by K. Kamekamani Jr.

In reference to those who have declined the ticket for the Fifth as the "hula-hula" ticket the chairman asked the orchestra to play a little hula music from time to time, a request which was acceded to with general amusement. William Aylett and Sol Mahelona were the last two speakers. W. H. Hickey took the County Act as his theme and Delegate Kubo, who was received with cheers, described some of the difficulties with which a territorial delegate had to cope with in Washington.

Charles Broad was the last speaker of the evening as by the time he was reached most of the audience was engaged in an attempt to rouse for the last caper up town.
